Article 11: General requirements for export, import and transit licensing or authorization systems

Paragraph 2

The following text is proposed for paragraph 2:

“2. States Parties, before issuing export licences or authorizations, shall ensure that all firearms to be exported are marked in accordance with article 9 of this Protocol.”

Canada

[Original: English]

Article 7: Confiscation or forfeiture

It is proposed that article 7 be amended to read:

“Article 7

“Confiscation and forfeiture

“1. States Parties shall undertake to confiscate or to require forfeiture of firearms, their parts and components and ammunition that have been illicitly manufactured or trafficked, in accordance with article 7 of the Convention.

“2. States Parties shall adopt the necessary measures to ensure that no firearms, their parts and components and ammunition seized, confiscated or forfeited as a result of illicit manufacturing or trafficking fall into the hands of private individuals or businesses through auction, sale or other disposal.

“3. States Parties shall ensure that confiscated and forfeited firearms that are retained for official use are marked and that the marking is recorded.”

Article 9: Marking of firearms

Paragraph 1 (a)

1. Manufacturers in China are obliged by law to put the appropriate marking on every firearm at the time of its production, regardless of what the firearm is destined to be used for (i.e. whether it is for military use or civilian use). However, markings may differ depending on what the firearms are to be used for. China is of the view that the criteria for determining what is an appropriate marking should be whatever enables the competent agency of a State Party to trace the source of the firearm. Therefore, it would be sufficient to require the marking to include the country of manufacture while leaving it to each State Party to decide what other information should be included in the marking. To make it more convenient to identify the country of manufacture, a universal system of country codes could be considered.

* Amendment previously issued in document A/AC.254/L.167.

 Amendment previously issued in document A/AC.254/L.157.

 Amendments previously issued in document A/AC.254/5/Add.22.

Paragraph 1 (b)

2. China does not require the marking of imported firearms. More consideration and discussion should be given to the provision in paragraph 1 (b) as it appears now. Bearing in mind the various practices in different countries concerning imported firearms, it might be sufficient for firearms to bear unique and identifiable markings that are recorded in full during the process of exporting and importing the firearms. Thus, paragraph 1 (a) of article 9, in combination with paragraph 1 (a) of article 8, could solve the problem of tracing imported firearms, thus relieving States Parties of the task of having to make changes in their current legislation and practices. In any case, the importing countries could decide whether to mark the imported firearms or not following their importation.

Article 11: General requirements for export, import and transit licensing or authorization systems

3. As for article 11, China has no particular difficulty with the requirements regarding export and import, but it has reservations with regard to transit licensing and retransfer authorization as the relevant provisions need to be clarified further. First and foremost, the definition of “transit” itself needs further clarification. In the view of China, the requirement of transit licensing inevitably imposes a heavier burden on the transit country. Besides, whether it is the importer or the exporter who should apply for the transit licence is not clear in the current provision. The relationship between transit and trans-shipping also needs clarification.

4. With regard to the requirement for written approval from the exporting country prior to re-export or retransfer, China is of the view that how to dispose of the imported firearms is the sovereign right of the importing country because, in general, once goods are delivered to the importer, the right of ownership is passed on to the importer, who in turn is responsible for the disposition of the goods. End-user certification could help to prevent the re-export or retransfer of firearms without the approval of the exporting country.

Article 14: Exchange of information

Paragraph 1

5. In paragraph 1, China proposes to add the words “and taking into account their legitimate security or commercial concerns,” after the words “applicable to them”.

Article 17: Confidentiality

6. China proposes to modify the last sentence in article 17 to read as follows:

“If for legal reasons such confidentiality cannot be maintained, the State Party that is to provide the information shall be notified prior to its provision of the information.”
