

Introduction

The information regarding law enforcement in New Zealand that follows has been obtained through the Questionnaire on the Code of Conduct for Law Enforcement Officials including the Basic Principles on the Use of Force and Firearms by Law Enforcement Officials, administered by the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Division of the United Nations Office at Vienna. This questionnaire is pursuant to Economic and Social Council resolution 1993/34, adopted on the recommendation of the United Nations Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice.

For further reference, a glossary of terms and phrases employed in the questionnaire, as well as the full text of the Code of Conduct for Law Enforcement Officials, are available online through the United Nations Crime and Justice Information Network at the following Internet address: <http://www.ifs.univie.ac.at/~uncjin/stdnrms/ccl/>.

Qualification, training, and counseling

All law enforcement officials<sup>1</sup> are selected by proper screening procedures;<sup>2</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory.

Screening procedures include the following<sup>3</sup>:

competitive examinations of applicants	<input type="checkbox"/>
interviews with applicants	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
security checking of applicants	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
other: interviews with NOK, ex-employers, referees	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

Screening procedures also focus on the following qualifications of applicants<sup>4</sup>:

moral qualifications	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
psychological qualifications	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
physical qualifications	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

All law enforcement officials receive continuous and thorough professional training in order to ensure the following<sup>5</sup>:

effective exercise of their functions	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
lawful use of force and firearms	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
that psychological impacts of police actions are properly taken into consideration by law enforcement officials	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
effective use of stress counseling in situations where force and firearms are used	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

In the training of law enforcement officials, special attention is given to the following<sup>6</sup>:

issues of police ethics	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
issues of human rights	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
alternatives to the use of force and firearms	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
the peaceful settlement of conflicts	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
the understanding of crowd behavior	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
methods of persuasion, negotiation, and mediation	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

New Zealand

Continuous and thorough professional training lasts, for all law enforcement officials, at least for thirty-one to fifty hours per year.<sup>7</sup> Training which is provided to all police forces includes special practice on<sup>8</sup>, and there are specially trained law enforcement units dealing with measures to combat and who are trained in the following:

Training in _____	Given to all police forces	Given to specially trained units
organized crime	[ ]	[X]
drug-related crime	[X]	[X]
money laundering	[ ]	[X]
environmental crime	[ ]	[ ]
terrorism	[ ]	[X]
domestic violence	[X]	[ ]
urban crime	[X]	[X]
juvenile delinquency	[X]	[X]
child abuse	[X]	[X]
crowd violence (specially trained units only)		[X]
undercover techniques	[ ]	[X]
passenger examination	[ ]	[ ]
cargo examination	[ ]	[X]
detection equipment	[ ]	[X]
surveillance	[ ]	[X]
arrest techniques	[X]	[X]

perpetuation of evidence	[X]	[X]
dispersal of assemblies (all police forces only)	[X]
report writing (all police forces only)	[X]
record keeping (all police forces only)	[X]
interviewing and interrogation techniques	[X]	[X]
use of informants	[X]	[X]

Law enforcement officials are tested in the use of force in accordance with appropriate proficiency standards;<sup>10</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory. Also, law enforcement officials who are requested to carry firearms are authorized to do so only when having completed special training on their use;<sup>11</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory.

Additional comments

Firearms are not carried on a permanent basis by general duties police officers. Provided they qualify twice a year, all police officers may be issued firearms in appropriate circumstances.

Reporting and review procedures

Law enforcement officials who used force are required to report the incident to their superiors on every occasion.<sup>12</sup> Furthermore, law enforcement officials who used firearms are required to report the incident to their superiors on every occasion.<sup>13</sup> Such a report must be sent to a law enforcement official's superior within one to ten days

A law enforcement official is held legally responsible for the unlawful use of force and firearms.<sup>14</sup> A law enforcement officer is held legally responsible for not having submitted an adequate report on the use of firearms to his or her superior; this practice is applied always and is mandatory. A superior officer is held legally responsible, if he/she gives unlawful orders to use force and/or firearms.<sup>15</sup> A superior officer is held responsible, if he/she knows or should have known that law enforcement officials under his/her command are resorting, or have resorted, to the unlawful use of force and firearms and did not take all measures in his/her power to prevent, suppress or report such use.<sup>16</sup>

In appropriate circumstances, independent administrative or prosecutorial authorities are in a position to exercise jurisdiction on reported incidents;<sup>17</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory. In cases where injury or death is caused by a law enforcement official who used force or firearms in the performance of his or her duty, independent administrative or prosecutorial authorities receive detailed reports on that incident;<sup>18</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory. For persons affected by the use of force and firearms or their legal representatives, there is access to an independent process, including a judicial process.<sup>19</sup> If a law enforcement official in compliance with the Code of Conduct for Law Enforcement Officials including the basic principles on the use of force and firearms refuses to carry out an order to use force and firearms, he/she must face the following.<sup>20</sup>

he/she has to face criminal sanctions	<input type="checkbox"/>
he/she has to face disciplinary sanctions	<input type="checkbox"/>
he/she has to face no sanctions at all	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

Additional comments

An independent police complaints authority oversees all complaints against police, as well as all incidents involving use of force by police which causes death or injury to any persons.

Confidentiality of information

When law enforcement officials are in possession of information relating to private lives of individuals or which is potentially harmful to the interests, and especially the reputation, of others, they should exercise great care in safeguarding and using this information;<sup>21</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory. A law enforcement official is held legally responsible if he or she discloses information other than in the performance of duty or to serve the needs of justice.<sup>22</sup>

Action against torture

It is unlawful for law enforcement officials to inflict, instigate or tolerate any act of torture<sup>23</sup> and other cruel, inhumane or degrading treatment or punishment.<sup>24</sup> In order to obtain information or confession, law enforcement officials are in special cases permitted to use interviewing and interrogation techniques which may cause physical or mental pain or suffering to persons under the following circumstances:

Medical services for persons held in custody

Medical and dental services are available for all persons held in custody;<sup>35</sup> this condition applies to all and is mandatory. Access to a qualified medical officer is available every day;<sup>36</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory. Ill or injured persons held in custody who require medical treatment are transferred to specialized institutions or to civil hospitals;<sup>37</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory. Law enforcement officials must obtain and comply with the advice of qualified medical personnel when that medical personnel recommends providing the person in custody with appropriate medical treatment;<sup>38</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory.

Prevention of and combating corruption

Law enforcement officials are not entitled to engage in any industrial, commercial or professional activities which are related to, or may be influenced by, their functions or duties;<sup>39</sup> this practice is applied always and is mandatory. Law enforcement officials have the duty to report any gift, for themselves or others, under the following circumstances<sup>40</sup>:

if the value of the gift exceeds a certain amount of money	[X]
if the gift is immaterial but could be bought	[X]
if a third party has promised any kind of privileges	[X]
if a third party has promised remuneration	[X]
other: always	[X]

This practice is applied always and is mandatory.

Within the administration there is a system to identify an order of priorities in which law enforcement officials have to deal with incoming cases.<sup>41</sup> A law enforcement official is prohibited from placing himself/herself under a pecuniary obligation of any kind to any person or entity in a manner which might affect his/her ability to perform his/her function and duties.<sup>42</sup> A law enforcement official is prohibited from being influenced by his/her own private interests when exercising his/her official function or duties.<sup>43</sup> There is an independent investigating procedure to examine allegations of corruption against law enforcement officials.<sup>44</sup>

Law enforcement officials who have committed an act of corruption are subject to the following sanctions which can be imposed by internal disciplinary mechanisms of a law enforcement agency:<sup>45</sup>

Additional comments

Police members shall not use a firearm except in the following circumstances.

(a) To defend themselves or others (Section 48 Crimes Act 1961) if they fear death or grievous bodily harm to themselves or others, and they cannot reasonably protect themselves, or others, in a less violent manner.

(b) To arrest an offender (Section 39 Crimes Act 1961) if they believe on reasonable grounds that the offender poses a threat of death or grievous bodily harm in resisting his arrest and the arrest cannot be reasonably effected in a less violent manner; and the arrest cannot be delayed without danger to other persons.

(c) To prevent the escape of an offender (Section 4[ ] Crimes Act 1961) if it is believed on reasonable grounds that the offender poses a threat of death or grievous bodily harm to any person (whether an identifiable individual or members of the public at large); and he takes to flight to avoid arrest, or he escapes after his arrest; and such flight or escape cannot reasonably be prevented in a less violent manner.

In any case an offender is not to be shot:

(a) Until he has first been called upon to surrender, unless in the circumstances it is impracticable and unsafe to do so.

And

(b) It is clear that he cannot be disarmed or arrested without first being shot.

And

(c) In the circumstances further delay in apprehending him would be dangerous or impracticable.

Use of force

Law enforcement officials may use appropriate force to disperse assemblies which are:<sup>64</sup>

lawful and peaceful	[ ]
unlawful but non-violent	[X]
violent	[X]

In the dispersal of assemblies that are unlawful but non-violent, law enforcement officials:

are requested to use force	[ ]
are requested to use no force even if the dispersal of the assembly would be easier when using force	[X]
may use force only to the minimum extent necessary to disperse the assembly	[X]
may use force only if the dispersal of the assembly is less dangerous to individuals than the continuation of the assembly	[X]

<sup>1</sup> In accordance with ECOSOC resolution 1989/61 of 24 May 1989, Annex, A.2, the definition of "law enforcement officials" shall be given the widest possible interpretation in order to achieve the aims and objectives set out in article 1 of the Code and its Commentary. The Commentary to Article 1 of the Code of Conduct states:

"(a) The term "law enforcement officials" includes all officers of the law, whether appointed or elected, who exercise police powers, especially the powers of arrest or detention.

(b) In countries where police powers are exercised by military authorities, whether uniformed or not, or by state security forces, the definition of law enforcement officials shall be regarded as including officers of such services."
